

LITERARY BIBLICAL FICTION

THE PROVIDENCE

by Quinlan Motley

A good, generous man encounters a command his goodness cannot solve.

Before he was remembered as the rich ruler who ran to Jesus, he was a hungry boy in Jericho. Through work, judgment, and a fierce sense of responsibility, he builds wealth that feeds households and gives others a fair measure. But what begins as care slowly becomes something harder to release.

AT A GLANCE

PUBLISHER	Good Novels
PUBLICATION	2026 · English
LENGTH	159 pages · about 3–4 hours
FORMATS	Kindle · paperback · hardcover
KINDLE	ASIN BoHH3ZH34W
PAPERBACK	ASIN BoHH47D2C7 · ISBN 979-8170406524
HARDCOVER	ASIN BoHH4JZYC6 · ISBN 979-8170443635

BIBLICAL FOUNDATION

Matthew 19:16–22 · Mark 10:17–22 · Luke 18:18–23

The protagonist's name, childhood, family, work, Jericho home, and aftermath are fiction. The novel does not present imaginative biography as Scripture or recovered history.

SPOILER LINE

Public coverage may identify the rich ruler and discuss his going away sorrowful. Please protect the novel's invented aftermath and final sentence.

Stories worth carrying.

MEDIA · REVIEWS · INTERVIEWS · BOOK CLUBS

goodnovels@mail.com · GoodNovels.org/press/

